BROKEN HEARTS MINISTRIES

PEMA (14 years old) Date of Birth: February 24th, 2000

I was born in a Buddhist family in the village of Zanskar deep in the Himalaya Mountains. My father was a heavy drinker so life was difficult. When I would see other children of the village going to school or their parents playing with them and eating food together, I would sometimes cry, “Why don’t my parents love us and send us to school?”

One day a relative who worked far away in a Christian hospital visited and saw the condition of our family. She took my brothers and sister and sent them to a children’s home. But I was still left in the village to help my mother. The following year the relative came again and found me in a condition that was worse than before. I did not have warm clothing, still wasn’t going to school, and was not receiving the proper care.

So in the year 2005, by God’s grace I was able to join Blue Haven Children’s Home. Now I am very happy and I am in 7th Grade and am doing well. One day Ricky, director of the home, asked me, “Pema, do you want to visit your family during the summer holiday?” I replied, “I don't have any other family but you. You are my Mom and these other children are my brothers and sisters and this is my home.” When I graduate, I want to become a school teacher so I can teach good things to many children. I would also like an opportunity to preach in the church and give glory to Jesus Christ who is my Savior and Lord.
